World's All-round Champion and Hammer-throwing Record-holder Will Compete in 56-pound Weight Match-More Than 350 Entrants Will Contest at Convention Hall.

newal of the Federal indoor games.

They will represent fifty-four colleges, schools, and clubs of twelve cities and towns. Every class of athlete will be there from the tiny midget in the grade school, to the giant American and world's champions, and they will compete in twenty-eight events, fourteen of which will be relay races.

Probably never before in Washington has there been so many "classy" performers on the programme of an indoor meet. At least four of the athletes who will compete to-night expect to be on the American Olympic team in London, and one or two others have a good chance to make the trip. Nor only in the open handicap events, but in the contests for school boys there is the same high class, and the Federal games of 1908 promise to set a new standard for Washington in the records that will be made by the winning competitors.

Leading the big bunch of entries in reputation and performance are Martin Sheridan, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, world's all-round champion, and Matt McGrath, of the New York Athletic Club, holder of the American hammer throwing record. These giants will take a try at the record for throwing the 56pound weight for height, and they will also be in a special shot put. Sheridan, always a glutten for work, will try condusions in three standing broad jumps against four good local men.

Haskins in 1,000-yard Run.

In the 1,000-yard run, Guy Haskins, the University of Pennsylvania intercollegiate Trims Fort Myer Basket-ball Team champion and record holder in the mile run, will be pitted against a rattling fast field, the best of which is Thurlow, of Virchampion, is in the 50-yard handicap, and to 17. a 50-yard invitation, and Paull, Pennsylvania's phenomenal freshman mile runner, will start in the long-distance event.

One of the most interesting of the special events is an invitation pole vault, with Thrall, of Technical High School; fast work and puzzling passes had a Landers frequently scored to Fitz's body Sterrett, of George Washington; Martin, comfortable margin when the whistle of Virginia; McMurray, of Tome Institute; and Ward, of the Baltimore Young Men's Christian Association. Race for Virginia Title.

Among the school races there will be one for the championship of Virginia, between the Woodberry-Forrest School and the Episcopal High School, of Alexandria, Western High, Emerson Institute, and the Washington School are in another race and the Baltimore City College, Brown Prep. School, of Philadelphia, and Maryland Agricultural College are classed to gether. Georgetown Prep., the Friend's Select School, and Business High have relay teams, and the midgets and grade Manager of Browns Thinks He Can school youngsters will have their annual championship battles.

Two trophy cups will be awarded, one to the school scoring the greatest number of points in the scholastic events, and the other to the winning team in the grade school relay championship. The latter is the Stinemetz trophy, and the former is presented by the Alumni of the University of Pennsylvania.

All the individual events are well filled with first class runners, jumpers, and weight men, the sprints, hurdles, and shotput having the cream of the college men and school boys. There are forty five starters in the 50-yard handicap, and eight trial heats will be required to sift the bunting. out the slower runners. Cartmell is scratch man, and he will have to go some to beat Rector, Randolph, of Vir ginia; Hill and Stollenwerck, of Hopkins; Royce, Smith, and Martin, of George-town; Whitham, of Pennsylvania; Hall, of Mercersburg, and Gill, of Tome.

In the hurdles the class is as high in any other event, with Randolph, of Virginia; Hill, of Hopkins; Hartranft, of Pennsylvania, and Hall of Mercersberg on the marks. Stipp, of Mercersberg, and Ganster, of Baltimere, will make the big fellows hustle in the shotput, and some mighty good runners are likely to be uncovered in the novice 600-yard and

To run off the big programme promptly and with every protection for the specta-tors will be the task of Referee Orton Starter Mike Murphy, Clerk Chesley, and the other members of the corps of offi cials. The trial heats in the novice spring will be started promptly at 7:45, and the schedule arranged calls for the completion of the programme at 11 o'clock.

bills for the suppression of race track gambling. 462 520 481 On the contrary, it is quite apparent that a large and prosperous lobby, the best "heeled" that has been here in years. is diligently at work seeking by all the tricks of the lobbyist's trade to thwart the expressed desire of the public to have Totals 438 412 452 the constitutional prohibition of gambling enforced.

Obscuring the Issue.

One of the present plans of the race track men is to obscure the issue in the fight by proposing amendments prohibiting bridge whist, poker, and all forms of gambling. Bills against stock gambling will also be used to mix the situation and confuse the public. While fake reformers are loudly urging the passage of these various freak bills,

the friends of the Jockey Club in the legislature will be using every known means of delay to stave off final action on the

Agnew-Hart bills in the hope that the session will be over before they are reached. Tried to Put Off Hearing. Already a request has been made, and

Appealing to the Farmers, Besides this personal work thousands of letters have been sent all over the State to members of the county fairs and agricultural societies, as well as to persons connected with the legislature, attacking the bills as a menace to lawful

Dear Sir: I write to you as a secretary and di-rector in an agricultural society. I am heavily interested financially in my fair, and I presume you are in yours. The passage of the bills proposed by are in yours. The passage of the bills proposed by Gov. Hughes in the legislature will mean the end of county fairs in this State. This has been without exception the experience in the States where such laws have been passed.

This would mean serious loss to me financially, and I presume it would to your people also. I write you to urge that you do everything in your power to oppose any change in the existing laws.

Any direct appropriation by the State would be unconstitutional, and if made in a large amount would be attacked in taxpayers' actions. The present method of taxing the gate receipts of racing as-
